The guilt alone is overwhelming. I'll pray for you pedes, but I wish I could do more. Learn from my mistakes

- Have you got knees? Then hit them and hit them hard. The front line isn't for all of us. Some of us have to stay behind and keep the home fires burning.

▼ I have far less than a grand. Been a lot of bad stuff happen this year, dental emergencies, medical problems, buried my brother, business is teetering on the edge, taking care of family, truck is breaking down. I'm also responsible for keeping several hundred workers in a job. I almost never take a day off and unfortunately I cant afford the time off or cost to journey to DC. Wish I could.

I'll be here in town doing what I can to help and protect those around me.

Consider being a source of info for those in DC. Internet there may go down. They will need someone to call for latest info and whats happening, traffic, where fights are breaking out. Also a lot of people will be driving and flying into the area and will need help, let them contact you for assistance finding what they need.

edit: friend died yesterday. We love and miss you Debbie. You're in Gods arms now.
